Foreword

This volume has been prepared as a souvenir for the Members of the Order.

The Military Order of the Dragon was organized to perpetuate the memories of The China Relief Expedition of 1900. This expedition was organized for the relief of the foreign legations in Peking, and the following is a résumé of the different campaigns:

May 26th. The envoys accredited to the Chinese Government applied to their governments for guards for the protection of the legations in Peking.

May 29th. American sailors and marines, under command of Capt. B. H. McCalla, U. S. N., landed at Taku, China, and proceeded to Tientsin.

May 31st. Guards for the legations at Peking, consisting of 350 sailors and marines from American, British, French, Italian, Japanese and Russian warships, arrived at Peking. Of this force fifty were officers and men of the United States Marine Corps and five were United States seamen under command of Capt. J. T. Myers, U. S. M. C., who took station as guard for the American legation. This detachment of Americans participated in the defense of all of the legations from June 20th until the relief column arrived on August 14th and held the Tartar wall between the Chien Gate and the canal, and thus saved the legations. Casualties, six killed and ten wounded.

June 10th. An expeditionary force commanded by Vice-Admiral E. H. Seymour, R. N., consisting of over 2,000 sailors and marines, the American contingent of about 100 men being under the command of Capt. B. H. McCalla, U. S. N., left Tien-Tsin for Peking. After numerous engagements with Boxers and Chinese troops, both during the advance, which reached Langfang, and the retirement, the command returned to Tien-Tsin on the 26th. American loss, four killed and twenty-five wounded.

July 13th. The combined forces, of which about 900 were Americans (Ninth Infantry and marines), attacked the walled city of Tien-Tsin, which was entered and occupied on July 14th. The American casualties included the commander of the American forces, Col. E. H. Liscum, Ninth Infantry, and Capt. A. R. Davis, of the U. S. Marines.

August 4th. The combined forces of about 16,000 men, of which over 2,000 were Americans (Ninth Infantry, Fourteenth Infantry, Troop M

August 5th. Battle of Peit-tsang.

August 6th. Battle of Yang-tsun; American casualties nine killed and sixty-four wounded.

August 14th. The American troops fought their way through the Chinese city of Peking and entered the Tartar city through the sluice gate. The Fourteenth United States Infantry was the first to scale the wall of the Tartar city.

August 15th. The American troops attacked and carried in succession all the gates leading to the Forbidden City from the Chien Gate, and established guards to hold them. Capt. H. J. Reilly, Fifth Artillery, killed.

August 16th. The city of Peking was divided for police and administrative purposes into four sections under the American, British, Japanese and Russian commanders, and the permanent camp of the American troops was established in the Temple of Agriculture.

August 19th. Expeditionary forces, of which 400 were Americans (Sixth Cavalry) under command of Lieut.-Col. T. J. Wint, Sixth Cavalry, defeated several thousand Boxers six miles southwest of Tien-Tsin.

During August and September, 1900, the American troops sent out minor expeditions in the vicinity of Peking. They retained administrative control of nearly one-fourth of Peking till May, 1901, by which time all American troops, except one company, as legation guard, had left China.

The relief of the foreign legations in Peking, for which the China Relief Expedition was organized, having been accomplished, a formal final review of the American troops in Peking was held on October 1st by Major-General Chaffee, in honor of the Honorable E. H. Conger, Minister of the United States of America; and, to perpetuate the memories of the campaign, the officers of the expedition organized The Military Order of the Dragon.

THE SIEGE IN PEKING.

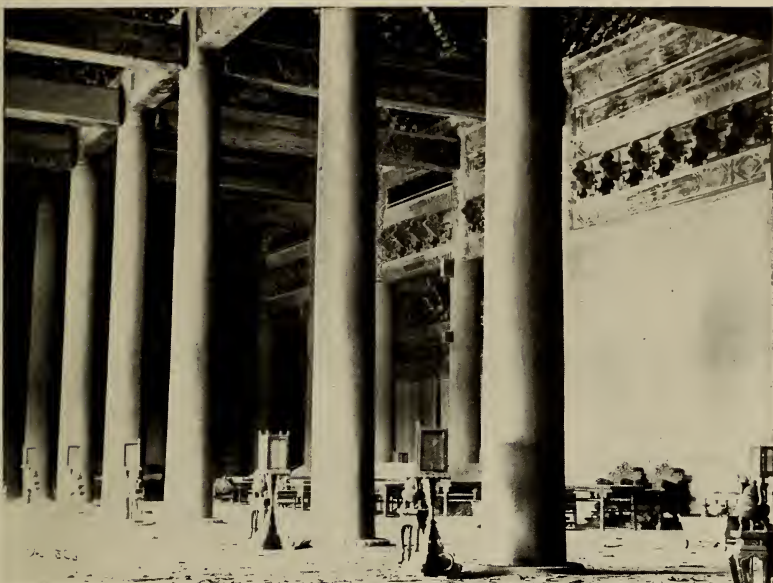

The British Legation. Outside view of the Legation gate, with Nordenfeldt gun and barricades. The wall across the street in the distance is the wall of the Imperial City. It was pierced by the Chinese soldiers, and a cannon, protected by iron shields, placed there. The buildings along the wall at the right were also occupied by soldiers and "Boxers" who, from this position, kept up an incessant rifle fire.

CUSTODIANS AND EUNUCHS OF THE ROYAL PALACE GARDENS.

CHINESE BELLES (Peking).

THE FORBIDDEN CITY, PEKING, 1900.

Tai Mias, or Imperial Great Hall of Sacrifice. Emperor's Ancestral Temple. Most sacred. Pillars are 60 feet high and 18 feet in circumference.

THE SIEGE IN PEKING.

The body of Captain Reilly, of the 5th U. S. Artillery, lying in the Front Gate (Chien-Men) building, surrounded by his men. Captain Reilly was killed during the attack on the "Forbidden City," the day after the relieving forces reached Peking.

THE SIEGE IN PEKING.

Fortified "Ramp" back of the American Legation, leading to the American position on the city wall. Probably the hardest fighting of the siege took place on this section of the wall. At one time the American soldiers held the incline on the left and the Chinese soldiers the one on the right, and waged battle across the narrow space at the top, where each had built a barricade.

THE SIEGE IN PEKING.

In the British Legation. First Secretary's House, showing how it was fortified with bricks and sand bags. Men of the Signal Service on the roof. This house was constantly under fire and was hit by probably thousands of rifle bullets, besides solid shot and fragments of shells.

THE SIEGE IN PEKING.

In the British Legation. House and gate in the south stable court, ruined by shot and shell fired by the Chinese soldiers. The house was completely wrecked.

CONSTITUTION

MILITARY ORDER OF THE DRAGON

Article I. This association shall be known as the "Military Order of the Dragon."

Article II. The purpose of the Order shall be to record the history and conserve the memory of the military campaign in China in the year 1900.

Article III. The membership of the Order shall consist of four classes:

Section 1. ACTIVE MEMBERS: All regular and volunteer commissioned officers of the United States Army, Navy and Marine Corps, Acting Assistant Surgeons and authorized Volunteer Staff Officers, who served as such, or as an enlisted man, in North China or in the Gulf of Pechili in connection with or as a part of any military operation and under the orders of the respective Army and Navy Commanders thereof between June 15th and December 31st, 1900, and all members of the Diplomatic and Consular services of the United States in Tientsin and Peking during said period shall be eligible as Active Members in the Order, and shall become such upon payment of the fees and dues hereinafter provided.

Section 2. HEREDITARY MEMBERS: The nearest male descendant, twenty-one years of age or over, of Active Members, may become Hereditary Members upon election by the Executive Committee and the payment of the fees and dues hereinafter provided. Hereditary Members shall not be entitled to vote or hold office. Upon the death of the Active Member from whom the Hereditary Member derives eligibility, such Hereditary Member shall become an Active Member by heredity, and shall be transferred to the active list, with all its rights and privileges.

Section 3. HONORARY MEMBERS: All members of the foreign diplomatic corps present on duty in Peking at any time during the period from June 15th to December 31st, 1900, all military and naval commissioned officers of other services than that of the United States present in North China, or in the Gulf of Pechili, and engaged in the military operations thereat, between the dates above specified, may become Honorary Members upon application as hereinafter provided.

Honorary Members will be charged no initiation fees or dues; they will not be entitled to hold office, except as hereinafter provided, nor to vote.

Section 4. HONORARY HEREDITARY MEMBERS: Male descendants of twenty-one years of age or over, of those eligible to Honorary Membership, may become Honorary Hereditary Members upon election by the Executive Committee as hereinafter provided.

Honorary Hereditary Members will be charged no initiation fees or dues; they will not be entitled to hold office, except as hereinafter provided, nor to vote.

Article IV. The Active Officers of the Order shall be elected from the Active or Hereditary Members and shall consist of: A President, a

First Vice-President, a Second Vice-President, a Secretary, who shall also be Treasurer, a Registrar, an Executive Committee, to consist of the President, ex officio, the Secretary, ex officio, and seven other Members.

Section 2. From among the Honorary Members the President may appoint an Honorary Vice-President for each nation represented in the membership, who shall hold office while he remains a member of the Order, unless he shall sooner resign said office.

Section 3. From among the Honorary Members, the President may appoint an Honorary Secretary for each nation represented in the membership, who shall hold office while he remains a member of the Order, unless he shall sooner resign said office.

Article V. The Active Officers shall be elected at the date of the annual meeting and shall hold office for two years. Upon the occurrence of a vacancy the President shall fill the same for the unexpired term.

Article VI. YAMENS: Washington, D. C., shall be the seat of the Chief Yamen of the Order. An annual meeting shall be held on the second Monday in June of each year at the Chief Yamen or at such subordinate Yamen as the Executive Committee may designate.

Article VII. The Executive Committee shall meet on the second Monday in December and June each year. A special meeting may be called by the President or by any three members of the Executive Committee. A majority of the Executive Committee, or the President and two other members, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of all business.

Article VIII. The Executive Committee shall authorize all expenditures and audit the accounts of the Treasurer, conduct the affairs of the Order and make suitable By-Laws. The By-Laws shall define the duties of the Officers, provide methods for the election of Officers, Hereditary and Honorary Hereditary Members, fix the amount of the annual dues and establish such other rules as may be necessary to properly conduct the business of the Order. The Executive Committee shall also provide appropriate regulations for such forms and ceremonies as may be deemed suitable at the annual meeting, and special meetings of the Order. It shall provide a suitable certificate of membership and an official seal.

Article IX. The Executive Committee shall adopt a suitable insignia and lapel button which shall be the same for all classes and each member shall be entitled to wear the same, under such rules as may be prescribed by the Executive Committee.

Article X. Application for membership shall be submitted to the Secretary. Satisfactory proofs of eligibility of the applicant must be furnished with the application. Applications for Hereditary and Honorary Hereditary membership shall be submitted to the Executive Committee for action. A single negative vote by any member of the Executive Committee upon an application for membership shall be sufficient for rejection.

Article XI. On and after October first, nineteen hundred and four, the initiation fee for Active Members shall be three dollars and there shall be added to this amount two dollars for each full year that has elapsed since the organization of the Order, on October first, nineteen hundred. The initiation fee for Hereditary Members shall be three dollars.

Article XII. A member may be dropped from the rolls by the Executive Committee, for non-payment of dues when the same remain unpaid for the period of one year. Any member, so dropped, shall be reinstated only upon payment of all arrears and upon action of the Executive Committee.

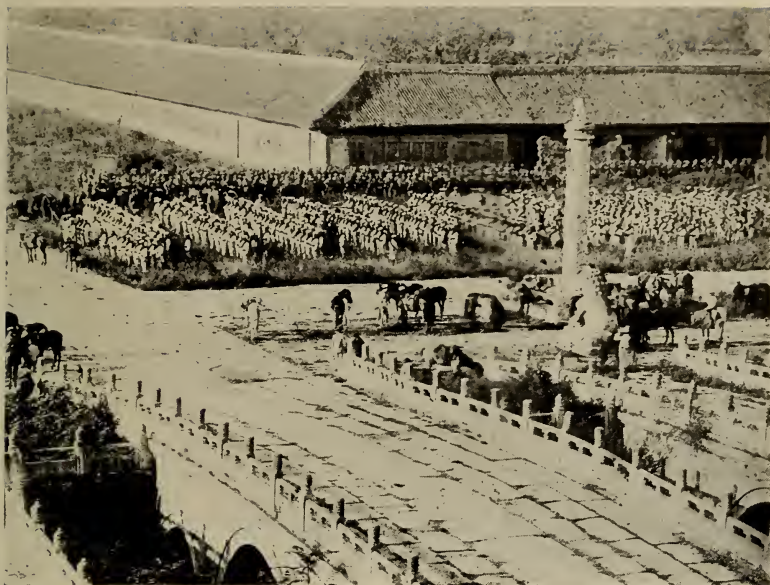

Article XIII. Section 1. A member may be expelled upon a two-thirds vote of all the voting members of the Order.

Section 2. A member, whether Active or Hereditary, shall be dropped from the rolls by the Executive Committee, who shall be shown in orders or correspondence published by the proper Executive Department, to have deserted the service of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, or who has been dismissed from such service by sentence of court-martial, or who has been allowed to resign for the good of the service.

Article XIV. This constitution may be changed by a two-thirds vote of the voting membership of the Order, not less than six months' notice having been previously given to the members of the proposed amendment.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT, CHINA BATTLEFIELD COMMISSION, TO THE PRESIDENT, MILITARY ORDER OF THE DRAGON, ON THE DEDICATION OF THE BRONZE MEMORIAL TABLETS.

SPIEGAL GROVE, FREEMONT, OHIO,
April 1, 1908.

GENERAL:

I have the honor to report the formal dedication of the bronze tablets authorized by the Congress of the United States and erected under the auspices of the China Battlefield Commission, of the Military Order of the Dragon, "to commemorate the service of the soldiers, sailors and marines of the China relief expedition of 1900, who rescued their countrymen in the beleaguered legation in the Tartar city of Peking."

The plans of the commission, approved by yourself as president of the society, called for the erection of six bronze tablets in Peking and one in Tien-Tsin. The tablets for Peking consisted of an historical tablet, memorial tablets to the killed and died, and roster tablets containing the names of organizations of the Army and Marine Corps and of the ships of the co-operating naval forces, together with the names of all officers participating in the expedition.

The tablet for Tien-Tsin contained the names of the Officers and men of the United States Army and Marine Corps, who were killed or wounded in action at Tien-Tsin, China, July 13, 1900.

Through the courtesy of Brigadier-General W. M. Crozier, Chief of Ordnance, and Brigadier-General C. F. Humphrey, Quartermaster-General, the commission was enabled to practically terminate its labor with the placing in the hands of the Chief of Ordnance, of the plans and dimensions of the proposed bronze tablets, together with inscriptions and list of names which were authorized by yourself and the Secretary of War, to be placed on the bronze tablets. The bronze castings were made at the Rock Island Arsenal, and together with lugs and bolts necessary for securing them in either brick or stone walls as might later be desired, were forwarded by the Quartermaster-General's Department, direct to Peking, China, and delivered under plans and instructions for their erection at Peking and Tien-Tsin, respectively, to the Quartermaster in charge of the Legation Guard at the American Legation.

Through the personal interest and courtesy of Colonel Blunt, the Commandant of the Rock Island Arsenal, the seven tablets for China were all shipped nearly two years ago. But in the meantime, the company of the 9th United States Infantry, which composed the Legation Guard, had been succeeded by a company of United States Marines, under the command of Captain W. H. Clifford, U. S. M. C., who was himself a member of the society, but had not been informed of the plans of the commission which contemplated simply the fastening of the tablets to the Legation Guard Compound, at practically no expense.

Captain Clifford, upon being advised of the shipment of the tablets, and wishing to expedite the erection of them at once wrote to the Navy Department, through the Commandant of the Marine Corps, asking instructions and suggesting that the tablets be placed on either side of the Sallyport of the Legation Guard Compound. Captain Clifford's suggestion was at once approved by the commission, and he was so advised, with the additional information that the tablets would come direct and with all the spare parts necessary for securely fastening them to the walls, and that, as the entire expense would probably not exceed one dollar, it was hoped that there would be no delay in the erection of the tablets.

Unfortunately the question of the estimated expense had already been submitted to the Comptroller of the Treasury, with the result that for over fifteen months, the question of the proper fund to which the one dollar of estimated expense should be charged, was a matter of official correspondence between the Departments of State, Treasury, War and Navy, while the tablets remained unboxed in the store houses in Peking awaiting a decision.

After the consultation with you at Los Angeles, I decided to visit Peking to erect the tablets, stopping en route in the Philippine Islands, to invite a representation of the officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, members of the society, to participate in the formal dedicatory exercises and unveiling of the tablets at Peking and Tien-Tsin respectively.

The Commanding Officer of the Third Squadron of the Pacific Fleet, kindly tendered the use of one of the small gunboats to the commission to ascend the Yang-tse-Kiang River from Shanghai to Hang Kow, but at the last moment, no members of the Order were able to visit Peking, and I proceeded to Shanghai alone, where the U. S. S. Villalobos, Lieutenant Adolphus An-draws commanding, was ordered to convey me to Hang Kow, China, from which place Peking was reached by rail.

It was a source of disappointment that members of the Order were obliged to abandon their intentions to be present at the dedication for which arrangements had been made by Captain James H. Reeves, 14th Cavalry, the Military Attaché in the American Legation at Peking, and a member of the Order.

On my arrival at Peking Captain L. M. Gulick, U. S. M. C., commanding the Legation Guard, and 1st Lieutenant P. H. Brown, his efficient Quartermaster, at once perfected the arrangements for the erection and unveiling of the tablets "without expense to the United States," at a total expenditure of $1.00 Mex.

On February 13, 1908, the fine guard of Marines, composing the Legation Guard, was paraded in the presence of Captain Reeves, the Military Attaché, and Surgeon E. C. Riggs, U. S. N., and members and student officers of the American Legation. The tablets were unveiled by myself as President of the commission, and turned over to Mr. Henry P. Fletcher, the first secretary and Acting Chargé of the American Legation, who placed them in charge of Captain Gulick, as Commanding Officer of the American Legation Guard.

On the following day I proceeded to Tien-Tsin, and after carefully looking over the ground, under all the circumstances concluded that no more appropriate place could be found for the erection of the commemorative tablets to the officers and men of the 9th Infantry and United States Marines who participated in the battle of Tien-Tsin on July 13, 1900, than on the wall of the office of the American Consulate General, and adjoining the residence in which the Consul General, Mr. J. W. Ragsdale, and his most patriotic wife, Mrs. Ragsdale, had shown such great kindness, not only to the wounded sailors and marines under Captain McCalla in the naval expedition toward Peking, but where also so many of the wounded of the battle of July 13th had been so tenderly cared for by both Mr. and Mrs. Ragsdale.

The foreign residents in the British Concession in Tien-Tsin had already placed a beautiful bronze tablet to the American dead, in Gordon Hall in the British Concession.

I cannot close this report without calling attention to one of the handsomest acts of courtesy between comrades in arms, although soldiers of different countries, that has ever come to my attention, in connection with the Liscum monument erected on the battlefield in Tien-Tsin. Immediately after the death of Colonel Emerson H. Liscum, the commanding officer of the 9th Infantry in the Battle of Tien-Tsin, and the officer highest in rank killed during the China Relief Expedition, the members of the 9th Infantry subscribed for the erection of a simple shaft to mark the place where Colonel Liscum fell.

In a former communication addressed to you, after a visit to the battlefield of Tien-Tsin, during the Russo-Japanese War in 1904, I called attention to the Liscum monument in a paragraph as follows:

"In Tien-Tsin the battlefield occupied by the 9th Infantry and American Marines is now a concession granted to the Japanese Government by China, and the one-time swamp or lagoon in which our soldiers fought and fell has been filled up and laid out like the streets of a modern city. Within perhaps two hundred yards of the place marked by the officers of the Ninth Infantry as the spot where Liscum fell is a beautiful cavalry memorial, erected by the Japanese at considerable cost, in a cavalry barracks, to mark the site occupied by their troops. Within a very short time, owing to the growth of the Japanese settlement in Tien-Tsin, the spot marked by the Ninth Infantry will be built over by the rapidly growing houses of the Japanese concession.

"When in Tien-Tsin I visited the Japanese Consul, and have every reason to believe that the Japanese authorities will gladly allow the erection of a simple marker in an oval made at the intersection of two of their streets, so that the Liscum marker could be preserved and be accessible to the many Americans visiting Tien-Tsin."

You can imagine my surprise and pleasure on visiting the battlefield with the Japanese Consul, to find that the Japanese Government had changed its plans relating to the concession, in such a manner as to locate a Japanese Park, which was to include the Japanese consular offices and a beautiful Japanese monument to their soldier dead, to a location near the site of the Liscum monument and in such a manner as to make a park of two full squares around the simple American monument. Since my visit, the ground had been leveled off, a substantial fence erected around the entire park, and, while retaining the center of it for the proposed Japanese monument, yet the American monument to Colonel Liscum occupied almost an equally prominent place in the park. I do not know whether it was the original intention of Japan to lay out and beautify a park, but had they not done so, and had they not selected a site which included the Liscum monument, then the Liscum monument would have been entirely obliterated from view and in the rear of the houses of a Japanese real estate allotment.

The Japanese Minister at Peking expressed his great interest in the American monument at Tien-Tsin, and invited me to accompany him from Peking to Tien-Tsin, where he instructed the Japanese Consul to afford me every facility and to expedite the completion of the Japanese Park as rapidly as possible.

Very respectfully,

(Sgd.) WEBB C. HAYES,

President, China Battlefield Association.

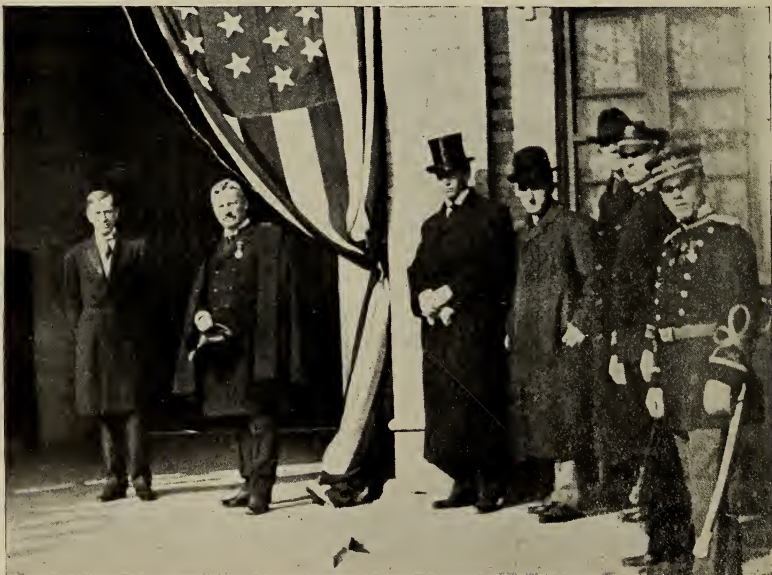

LIEUT-GENERAL A. R. CHAFFEE, U. S. A.,

President of the Military Order of the Dragon,

Los Angeles, California.
